The Re-union.

The reunion of the 75th and 90th regiments, O. V. I., held in this place, was a grand success. The people from abroad were loud in their praises of the courtesy and liberality of our Logan people as also of the management, which was largely due to the persistent and untiring efforts of Capt. D. A. Miller.

The music was fine. The Logan band, unexcelled in the Hocking Valley, deserves praise for their appropriate selections and the manner in which they were executed. The Nelsonville Drum Corps, composed principally of little boys from 12 to 14 years of age, astonished everybody. They are little giants in their profession and deserve the highest praise. Splendid martial music was given by the old soldiers.

An attempt to describe the magnificent and colossal decorations would be vain. Men, women, children and teams were engaged for several days in collecting and arranging evergreens, flowers, pictures and flags. The elaborate display at the business house of Chas. Rose was particularly noticeable, and the whole town presented a perfect picture. At the Opera House on Thursday afternoon, the speeches made by Col. Yeoman, Col. Harris and Col. Friesner were able, appropriate, non partisan and quite entertaining to all who heard them. At night the soldiers gathered around their campfires, which were located in different parts of the city, and talked over the toils and privations through which they passed during the war of the rebellion.

The fire works department was under the exclusive control of K. O. Kittsmiller and everything was conducted in a business and soldierly like manner. A constant cannonading was kept up by Robert during the entire reunion. Several very successful balloon ascensions were made on Thursday evening under the management of James Engle, of our town.

At 11 o'clock on Friday the two regiments gave a grand street parade, which was witnessed by many thousands of people, and then they marched to the rink where dinner was awaiting them, which was the grandest and best ever given in the valley. Only those who enjoyed it can tell of its excellency. It was said by the soldiers and others that it was the grandest display of provisions they ever saw. Great credit is due Mrs. Dr. Pullen and the other good ladies of our town for preparing this grand repast, which was only indicative of the manner in which the people of our valley live.

The flag parade, on Thursday night, which was so gracefully and admirably given by the forty young ladies, under the direction of Mrs. Pullen, was quite an innovation in the line of reunions and was highly applauded by all.

Another very attractive feature was the parade of the White Caps, under the efficient management of Gen. John H. Wolff and J. T. McCormick of this place. This procession was headed by McCormick's son, 12 years old, who is an expert in military tactics and can handle a company or regiment as scientifically perhaps, as any man in the state.

Altogether, the reunion was a revival to our town. Comrades from the remotest parts of the continent met and shook hands perhaps for the last time before "crossing over the river to rest under the shade of green trees." During the reunion it was noticeable that no word of profanity was heard, no misconduct observed. The soldiers showed themselves gentlemen in Logan as they proved themselves heroes on many a bloody field. We hope and know that the comrades left our town with equally as good a feeling to Logan as we entertain for them. The following resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, that we hereby tender to the citizens of Logan for their generous liberality and cordial welcome extended to us at this annual reunion, our hearty thanks.

Resolved, that the local committee, for their elegant program so speedily executed in its minutest details, has our hearty commendation.

Resolved, that the Juvenile Drum Corps of Nelsonville, for its elegant rendition of the inspiring martial music which revives so vividly the memories of the days of '61 to '65, as well as the Logan Cornet Band, merit our warm commendation.

Resolved, that Mrs. Dr. Pullen for her indefatigable labors in organizing and presenting the interesting feature of our entertainment, through an organization of beautiful, young ladies, is hereby warmly thanked, and through her the young ladies for their entertainment.

Resolved, that the thanks of the Association are due and hereby tendered to Comrade Geo. H. Lehman for his soldierly liberality in furnishing to us, in connection with the U. V. I., this elegant furnished hall free of charge.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be furnished to all persons named, and to the press of Hocking County, with a request for their publication.

The Coming Fair.

The annual fair of the Hocking Country Agriculture Society, will be held next week, and we desire to call the special attention of our towns-men and curiously seekers of the county, to the fact, that there will be special effort made to satisfy the hunger of the curious, and appease the longing appetite of those interested in the skilled arts.

Hereto fore all the intent of the society has been directed and inclined toward those branches of industry which tends to lighten and forward agriculture. But this was in the time past, we are now in the present and a more practical age. We must satisfy the desire and inclination of all; Many of us, who attend the fair are content with a single glance at the large pumpkin. Many others do not know, the calf when they see it or at least are not able to judge its points of merit and place it in the class or breed of cattle it belongs. In saying this I mean to throw no insinuation on those parties who can appreciate the above objects, but only to call the attention, of the people to the fact, that there are more than one class of people to satisfy. Some are satisfied with the horse, others are content to watch the movements and workings of various machinery. While others and more especially the ladies find attractions and interest themselves, in the art Halls, among the old relics of Indian antiquity or the heir looms once the possession of our fore fathers.

Others seek pleasure and information among the finer arts, it may seem a painting, the scene of a hard fought battle, or it may be the statue of some renowned orator or statesman, the work of some noted sculpturer. Parties not being able to see these in reality, are content with the picture or statue, as art reveals the scene.

The fancy or needle work is also another feature that attracts the attentions, of our fairer sex, and as we see them clustered around the booth where the needle work is displayed, we hear the remark, "it's just that nice," "how lovely," "I wonder who made it." These are only a few among the many incidents that occur at the fair, and what I want to ask all the people, and especially those of our town to bring and contribute to the fair any thing that would interest or please, and to lend a ready hand to try to make the fair a success in every particular, all goods or articles will receive the best of care, and be under the control of a guard, so that there is no possible chance of their being lost or stolen.

Remember, "A generous mind does not feel as belonging to itself alone, but to the whole human race."

Fair Notes.

Don't forget to attend the fair next week.

Children day at the fair Friday Oct. 4th. All school children are admitted free of charge.

Remember that Wild Jim, the great western cow boy and crack shot will be on the fair grounds and give exhibitions of his skill, both as a rifle shot and horseman.

The books of the secretary are now ready for entries and in order to avoid the rush those intending to make exhibits at the fair should call on the Secretary and have their entries booked before the Fair opens.

The races promise to be a most interesting feature of the Fair next week. The managers have assurance that many of the fastest horses in the State will be present. Every lover of turf sports should attend and see the flyers go.

Those wishing to see the finest display ever made in Hocking County should not fail to attend the fair this year.

There will be special attractions at the fair on Friday for the children.

Don't fail to take a look at the saddle and bridle used by Wild Jim, at the fair next week.

Wild Jim offers $20 to any person bringing a colt, steer or mule, to the fair next week.

Parents should not forget that their children are admitted to the fair free of charge on Friday.

No one should pass the collection of old relics, fossils and natural curiosities at the fair.

Half fare rates on all the Rail Roads to the Hocking County Fair.

The "Free for All Trot" on Saturday, Oct. 5, is attracting the attention of horsemen and it will be the most hotly contested race ever held in Hocking County.

Dr. Allen of Haydensville was in town on Tuesday.

McPeck the boy who was kicked in the forehead, by a horse, two weeks ago and seriously hurt, had recovered sufficiently, as he thought to tackle a threshing machine, but the machine got the better of him, caught his hand in some of its wheels and caused his fingers to be called on Dr. Blosser last Thursday and had one amputated and the others cared for.

Dr. Z. V. Runey, dentist, has found at last the best remedy for extracting teeth without pain, or producing sleep, or any injury to the person. It was discovered and thoroughly tested by Dr. George D. Billings, of Medina, O. It is "ita est." I am the only dentist in the city using it.

Only a Baby.

On last Tuesday morning as the day was breaking the shadows of the night, little Annie, only daughter of Oliver Wright, took angel's help and went away. The little girl was a beauty. She was one of the brightest little girls of our town, admired on the street for her modest demeanor and loved by those who knew her for her goodness.

Her death does not affect the rushing people who are chasing the dollar and make their life's effort to get rich. Her death does not affect corporations, nor halt the rushing trains. It is only a baby. In all homes where the baby went away, there is as much sorrow as follows the carnage of the field of battle.

Nursed and nurtured as little Annie was she became so very close to the embracing arms of parents and so near to ministering angels. But in the morning when the birds began the song of welcome to the coming day, "one bold angel kissed her, the Angel of Death."

ONLY A BABY.

Touch the latch gently.
There has been here;
See the crye hanging.
The dead are so dear.

"Only a baby."
Somebody said;
Dress, loon, in flowers,
To the baby dead.

Gather the daisies,
Dainty and white,
Emblems of purity,
Emblems of light.

Wave for her brow
A garland fair,
Tie for her hand
A rosary rare.

Gather white lilies,
Modest and sweet,
And lay them close
To the baby feet.

Take them to one
Who is kneeling there;
Till her heart sorrow
Is every where.

Take them in gently,
Till her form move
No love like a mother's Ever can be.

New Home
SEWING MACHINES.

When you visit the County Fair next week, call and see Henry Lutz, at his place in the City Building. If you want any other make of Sewing Machine, he will furnish it at less than you can purchase it elsewhere. He warrants all Machines that go out of his shop.

Dr. Beery of Union Fairview was seen our streets on Tuesday.

Will Risley's little daughter has Diphtheria and is not expected to recover.

Nick Snyder of Somerset member of the firm of J. J. Snyder and Bros. was in town on Tuesday.

Mr. Raymond Baird, traveling salesman for Wheeler & Chamberlin, iron commission merchants of Columbus, Sundayed in Logan.

Dr. Z. V. Runey, since last Saturday, extracts teeth with a brand smile mantling his countenance. A new baby, and a Democrat, too, tipping the beam at an eleven dozen pounds, is the sole cause.

It is quite sickly along Rush Creek this season. Jacob Beery is not expected to live; Mrs. Weidner is lying dangerously ill; quite a number of children are sick; several deaths have occurred within the past ten days, among which were Mrs. Abbe Stemen, John Sheets, Miss Rebecca Poling and two children by the name of Ashbaugh.

No man's spirit was ever hurt by doing his duty; on the contrary, one good action, one temptation resisted and overcome, one sacrifice of desire or interest, purely for conscious sake, will prove a cordial for weak and low spirits far beyond what indulgence or diversion can do for them.—Paley.

Old age brings with it the consciousness of physical infirmity and decay, which no art can conceal and no medicine remove. This decay is a loud hint that death is not far distant, and that one should set his house in order for that solemn event. The young may die, but the old must soon die.—N. Y. Independent.
